I am quite of your opinion about the Head Quarters being always at Fred^{ic}. from some circumstances I have heard from the Duke, some time ago. — I suppose Mr. L. will write some of your family. My love to them all. I am yours most truly

My Dear Missen, — I am rejoiced to hear you are recovering again. — This had been a long & severe attack. — I wish we could find out some way to prevent those kind of attacks we are all so much liable to, and of which I believe we all have our share in some shape or other.
For myself & my partner of whose indispositions I know best, I calculate about one fourth part of the time to be on the invalid list, and about one third below par. — Look at our last Tuesday's paper the 28th Ult^o. — under the head of Political arithmetic. —

Both our friends Mr. Brinby has been ill this ten days past, & now Lady Wentworth with a kind of pleurisy, I believe proceeding from colds, — the former is recovered, but the latter is in her room yet. — The ladies bring all these kind of complaints upon themselves by going without warm clothes, — so says the Doctor. —

We have no arrivals here nor any kind of foreign news, & our domestic affairs are of too little moment to be remembered through the week. — The weather has
