

and having no answer, he wrote to the Duke whose letter & answer you have. After more than 20 days Mr Windham answered L^d Letting grants his request. The time which elapsed gave the Duke an opportunity to L^d Grenville. The Duke was not to be refused & Mr Windham the proper to give a favorable answer to L^d Off. my opinion is that L^d Grenville has told the Duke his request is complied with & Mr Windham claims the merit of obliging L^d Off. - But if I am right in my conjecture a pretty piece of com. finis. by w^{ch} they oblige two gentlemen. May you under obligation to both - but this is should, happen that the Duke's interest prevail you is disappointed. L^d Grenville who was the premium mobile - all this in your eye only. The war ship will bring of commissions. Adieu I am tired God bless you. E. J. Antwerp Cassierin writes you.

I am indebted to Danforth for this frank

My dear friend

14-3A
I heartily congratulate you & your interesting family on your appointment. There is a tide in some men's affairs and it certainly has run and I believe of your success Mr. Davis where now if you have succeeded in procuring a cadet ship. I shall see then tell him, I will tell Mr. Davis, there is one more but accident, just from what you yourself feel, my dear Sir, how much your young friend was delighted at being permitted to be an instrument of comfort to your heart. This is so much better a provision for Mr. Edward, than it appears to us if you can make for him in New Brunswick that I have no doubt of its meeting your wishes.
The establishment of our son in India may be a source of great advantage to your family.
My dear friend, I will not say I shall be in July & if so he will probably go out again in Jan^y or Feb^y. & the arrangement we used to talk over can take place - he will be happy to take charge of him out & will arrange every thing for his outfit to make it come as early to you as possible. Tell Miss Misses I am always wondered to address her after so long a silence, but when we forward your commissions, relying on