

Long epistles. —

I cannot at this time enter upon the subject of our son so largely as I intend.
But only tell you in general terms that I love him as ardently as yourself — & that I am perfectly convinced of the goodness of his disposition, & the other good qualities which you enumerate with so much Maternal pleasure
there