

Morris has paid a visit to Commodore Sir Charles Douglas this morning, and he has politely offered him a passage in either of the Transports which are now preparing to sail. And Gordon has also waited on him in behalf of Master Murray - & he has made the same answer with respect to him. I am exceedingly gratified at it, and I have dispatched Morris to propose the matter to the Captain of the Sally, a fine large ship, in which goes passengers, Col: Murre, Col Brownlow, Major Horne, & several others of my particular acquaintance. I have requested Robinson to make a bargain with the Captain to have a berth built in his own State Room, and that I will pay any expense that may attend it. - Every preparation is making for him to embark, I shall lay in every kind of Stores, Wine &c. And
