

His intelligence I suppose will not be of any great consequence — He certainly hasn't the least appearance of a Speculator — But it would increase the number of original returns which as Brook Watson is your correspondent
I should conceive of no small importance.

Mr. Sergeant is to give me some farther intelligence respecting Barnington, to complete his return, which together with Captain White's papers will be ready for you at Granville on your return. — By that time I hope also to get Mr. Shaw's intelligence which he has promised to let me have about Christmas — I am also collecting information from Captain Chamberlain who has three journals at his settlement already.

I talk largely of the Years
85. and 86.
